DEPT. OF JUSTICE:

As one consumer who loves the products, innovation and determination of Microsoft to improve the technological world we live in, I sincerely hope that the government's decisions will favor Microsoft. It is the only rational action you can take.

AOL's vengeance [on behalf of Netscape] is sad and unfounded, and one based on greed and envy.

As a Microsoft stockholder, my testimony against AOL is fraught with even greater dissatisfaction. It is unlikely I would ever become an AOL user now, in light of this aggression on their part. Our family has sold off any stock holdings we had affiliated with AOL/Netscape et al, as a personal stand against what they now stand for.
